250 TO 300 PEOPLE WERE KILLED IN THE PROVINCE OF BATANGAS

Two Small Steamers, Dona Ramona With Passengers and Crew of 29, and Kinkiat Are Missing

Waters of the China Sea, Driven by Force of Typhoon Smashed the Dikes and Swept Over the Land, Wiping Out a Number of Villages

Manila, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Between 250 and 300 persons were killed in the province of Batangas by the typhoon and flood, which swept the lower part of the island of Luzon Saturday, according to advices received from the devastated district today.

The governor general's office was preparing to dispatch an airplane with Major Parker Hitchens, chief sanitary officer, to take charge of the relief work.

It was reported that two small steamers, the Dona Ramona, with passengers and crew numbering 29, and Kinkiat, a slightly larger vessel, both were missing.

The entire devastated area is said to be in such a state of panic that an accurate accounting of the deaths and losses has been impossible.

Rescue workers today were searching the ruins that had once been villages in search of additional bodies, while relief crews were caring for the thousands left without food or shelter in the path of the wind and flood waters.

Waters of the China sea, driven by the force of the typhoon, smashed the dikes and swept over the land, wiping out several villages, according to reports carried to Manila by refugees.

A Red Cross train carrying doctors, nurses, hospital supplies and 500 sacks of rice, was besieged by the survivors, who, it was reported, were suffering from lack of food, all supplies having been swept away in the flood.

A graphic story of the havoc wrought by wind and water was carried to Manila by the crew of an army plane, which flew over the storm-wrecked area.

The fliers said they had witnessed scenes of indescribable confusion. They reported the towns of Lajamas and Hagony destroyed and said that thousands were homeless while roads were impassable and in many places bridges had been swept away.

First reports reaching Manila said the naval station had suffered extensive damage. It was learned later that the damage was less than first indicated.

The agricultural college and other government buildings at Los Banos were reported to have been damaged heavily.

The homes of American girl school teachers collapsed and the teachers were driven into the storm in the early hours of the morning.

OFFICIAL DEATH LIST EXCEEDS 400

By WILLIAM R. KUHN

Manila, Nov. 1.—The official typhoon death list already exceeds 400, others are being reported constantly and rescuers have recovered 162 bodies, according to Major Parker Hitchens, chief sanitary officer of the Philippine Islands, who today gave the United Press a graphic eye witness description of the devastated district.

Major Hitchens went to Batangas province in an airplane.

He reported that one sixth of the total crops valued at nearly ten million dollars was destroyed, while the damage to shipping, homes and some food crops is enormous.

There is no danger of a famine but the populace is so dazed by the catastrophe that it will be days before it can pull itself together, the officer said.

Major Hitchens, who rushed to the town of Pawan in an amphibian plane, found dead bodies everywhere and native homes were strewn about the entire area.

"A peculiar thing about this catastrophe is that few persons were injured. All the deaths so far checked were caused by drowning."

"Wholly unprepared for the shock the people were caught like rats in the hold of a wrecked ship."

GIRL REFUSES TO GO TO DANCE; SUITOR SHOTS HER

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 8.—(UP)—Enraged because Ruth Olson, 22, refused to go to a dance with him and going out with another man, Peter Wysocki, 15, shot and seriously wounded her and then turned the gun upon himself. Both were taken to Emergency hospital where their condition is reported critical.

The bullet struck Miss Olson in the breast while Wysocki has a wound a few inches below the heart.

According to police Miss Olson had planned to go to a dance with George Zewa, 22. Wysocki arrived at her home and refused to leave. Another couple came along in their automobile to take Zewa and Miss Olson to the dance, but Miss Olson informed them she was locked in her room. They broke open the door just as Wysocki fired the two shots, one at Miss Olson and the other at himself.

SHORT SESSION OF CONGRESS TO DODGE DRY ACT

LEADERS NOW RETURNING TO PREPARE FOR MEETING EX-PRESS SUCH VIEWS

By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, Nov. 8.—The short session of congress beginning a month from today will avoid action on prohibition, tariff reform and agricultural relief, if leaders now returning to prepare for the meeting have their way.

They usually do. Their plan is to work out a temporary blanket tax rebate scheme, pass the routine government appropriation bills and relatively unimportant routine legislation, and adjourn March 4 until December, 1927.

Republicans are confident that President Coolidge will not call the new congress into session before the regular December, 1927 meeting and therefore most important problems are expected to lie over until just before the next presidential elections.

The major problem of the session will be tax reduction. The house ways and means committee will meet here in a few days to work out a resolution carrying out President Coolidge's suggestions for a rebate from 10 to 12 per cent upon taxes paid since March 15 for this year. It is expected to be introduced in the house as soon as congress meets and should be ready for action by the senate soon after the Christmas holidays. Democrats already are working on their plan for another tax reduction on next year's rates, and will stage a battle for it in the senate.

While the house is working upon tax reduction and the first appropriation bills, the senate will consider the left over rivers and harbors measure carrying appropriations for improvements throughout the country. After Christmas the Lausanne treaty of peace with Turkey, long pending, will be taken up. It faces a sharp attack from senators opposed to any relations with the Turkish government.

By JOHN MONTGOMERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train in Northern Montana, Nov. 8.—A queen today travels across the wilds of the Rocky Mountains beset by more intrigue than surrounded her at any time during her court life.

Half the occupants of her special train are not speaking to the other half except for a frigid nod when propriety demands. Out of a maelstrom of tangled hatred have come nucleus of two separate and distinct parties opposing each other at every turn.

One faction supports John H. Carroll in charge of the special train. The other faction supports Lole Fuller, invalid dance impresario and intimate friend of Queen Marie and her children.

The division of the camp into two parties was caused by the quarrel between Samuel Hill, Washington road builder and founder of Mary Hill museum, which the queen dedicated, and Stanley Washburn, her majesty's aide. Carroll defended Washburn and succeeded in expelling Hill from the train against the hearty protest of Miss Fuller, who was connected with Hill in the museum.

At present the storm center is Miss May Birkhead, Miss Fuller's publicity director, who is charged with conspiring for Hill's return to the train after Carroll had ejected him. While Birkhead denied any conspiracy against Carroll, it seems apparent that she might leave the train at any time. Miss Fuller, it is believed, will continue the journey as far as Chicago.

While no arrangements have been made for automobile transportation at forthcoming stations, it is understood that J. B. Ayres, Ford representative, who was expelled from the train Saturday night, is preceding the train and will be on hand to see that her majesty has transportation in Lincoln cars as usual. The first city to be visited is Denver.

There is a definite movement on foot in the train to have Ayres reinstated, certain members of the party claiming that he was doubtless misquoted in statements declaring that Ford was paying the queen's incidental expenses and buying gifts for her retinue. Ayres flatly denied the statements attributed to him but he was barred from the train when he attempted to board it in Seattle on the grounds that members of the party must be above reproach.

Antwerp, Belgium, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Several women and children were injured today during the popular demonstration of welcome to Princess Astrid, who arrived from Sweden today to be married again to her husband, Prince Leopold of Belgium, who she had not seen since the evening of their first wedding day last week.

The future queen of the Belgians was dressed in white.

The crowd broke the police cordon which protected the departure of the royal party from the town hall. King Albert bowed a way through the throng for Queen Elizabeth and Leopold protected his bride. The incident delayed the departure for Brussels by 15 minutes.

Charles R. Rose Rapidly From Clerk

From being the lowest paid clerk in the St. Paul office of the collector of internal revenue in 1910, Nash rose in 12 years to the most important position in the Department of Internal Revenue, excepting the commissioner.

Coming to St. Paul from his home in Brainerd in 1910 when he was but 23 years old, Nash took a position as clerk in the internal revenue office here. From that position he rose rapidly until he finally became cashier. In 1919 he was transferred to Washington as assistant supervisor of collections, which office he held until 1921, when he returned to St. Paul as chief deputy to Collector L. M. Willcuts.

Latest Advance Last April Nash established such a record for efficiency while here that when some one was needed to straighten out the accounts of the New York office in 1921 he was sent three times from here to help out that office.

MUCH PROPERTY OWNED BY ANTI-FASCISTS ENTIRELY DESTROYED

London, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Nearly 100 persons have been killed and 1,000 injured in fascist reprisals for the attempt on the life of Premier Mussolini of Italy, according to dispatches from Lugano, Switzerland, to the Daily Herald.

The report says—hundreds of houses and ships, owned by anti-fascists, have been destroyed and added that whole families have been driven from their homes under pain of death.

The Daily Herald dispatch said that 150 persons have been driven from Lucca and also many from Padua, who had taken refuge in Milan.

Among the victims of the reprisals in Naples where houses were destroyed, the dispatches said, were the noted Italian philosopher, Benedetto Croce; the playwright, Roberto Bracco; the socialist leader and writer, Arturo Brabiolia, and the communist leader, Bordiga.

It was reported that one of the richest libraries in Italy, that owned by Croce, also was destroyed.

Homes of other prominent persons reported to have been destroyed were those of the democratic leaders Duca Di Cesarò, and General Sencivenza and the socialist leader, Claudio Treves.

MCDERMOTT PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO MURDER CHARGE

Canton, O., Nov. 8.—(UP)—Pat McDermott, recently captured fugitive in the Don R. Mellett murder case, pleaded not guilty on a first degree murder charge. OPERATION OF A WHITE SLAVE RING CHARGED

St. Paul, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Operation of a white slave ring, which sold young girls to resorts at Hurley, Wis., is charged to four men who are being held here today for federal authorities.

The men are Michael Sandritti, 34, of Ironwood, Mich.; Vincent Dagnostino, 26, of Iron Mountain, Mich.; Joe Rossi, 30, of St. Paul, and Nick Abrass, 41, of St. Paul. All four are charged with violating the Mann white slave act.

District Attorney Lafayette French, Jr., said the men became acquainted with girls in St. Paul night clubs and offered them jobs as waitresses or barmaids at Hurley at big salaries.

Cases of half a dozen girls, who thus were tricked into lives of shame, all under 19 years of age, are being investigated.

REMOVED TO NEW HOSPITAL IN JERSEY CITY

OBSCURES THE OTHER DEVELOPMENTS IN THE HALL-MILLS TRIAL

BIG QUESTION IS WHEN WILL SHE BE ABLE TO GIVE TESTIMONY

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

County Court House, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 8.—Controversy arising from the dramatic removal of Mrs. Jane Gibson, to the Hudson county hospital in Jersey City has obscured other developments in the Hall-Mills trial, today entering its second week.

The "squat pig woman," through the surprise move engineered yesterday by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson, once again has become the local point of interest in the efforts of the state of New Jersey to convict Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, for the murder on the night of September 14, 1922, of Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

Overshadowing for the moment the mystery of the double murder was the question, "When will Mrs. Gibson be able to testify?" and to that query were divergent answers.

"Three or four weeks," said Dr. A. Anderson Lawton, her local physician, who bitterly protested Mrs. Gibson's transfer from the Somerset hospital, where she had been under treatment for a kidney infection since Wednesday night.

Mrs. Gibson was removed from the Somerset county hospital here over the protest of the house physician, A. A. Lawton, when Simpson descended with detectives and an ambulance on the hospital yesterday and demanded her.

After an encounter with Dr. Lawton, in which Simpson brushed his protests aside, Mrs. Gibson was placed in the ambulance and taken to the Jersey City hospital in Simpson's home town. Her temperature was 103. She signed a release absolving the Somerset county hospital of blame if her removal resulted unfavorably.

Dr. Lawton denounced the move as "outrageous" and warned Simpson that it might endanger Mrs. Gibson's life.

Simpson was obdurate. He said he had been given to understand that it had been planned to operate on Mrs. Gibson in Somerville. His surprise move was taken to mean that he had no intention of permitting an operation to endanger his chances of getting Mrs. Gibson to the witness stand before it is too late.

In Jersey City hospital authorities said an immediate operation was not necessary.

Court Room, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 8.—The jury in the Hall-Mills murder case today was given a description of the scene in DeRusse's Lane the night of the murder and testimony that Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, had been seen there.

Robert Erling, a young truck driver of New Brunswick, N. J., was the witness.

He told how he and a girl, whom he named after much pressure, as Jennie Lamport, had spent more than an hour in the lane; that Mrs. Gibson once had stopped her mule beside his car; and then he described mysterious comings and goings of automobiles, ranging from popular priced sedans to expensive limousines. He added to the impression that DeRusse's Lane was a busy place that night.

On cross examination Robert McCarter, defending Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, Willie and Henry Stevens of the charges that they murdered the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, suddenly asked:

"Do you know Edward Staub?"

"Yes," responded Erling.

"Did you meet Staub soon after the reopening of this case and say to him 'Staub, if you want to make some money you can do it by saying

Overshadowing for the moment the mystery of the double murder was the question, "When will Mrs. Gibson be able to testify?" and to that query were divergent answers.

"Three or four weeks," said Dr. A. Anderson Lawton, her local physician, who bitterly protested Mrs. Gibson's transfer from the Somerset hospital, where she had been under treatment for a kidney infection since Wednesday night.

Mrs. Gibson was removed from the Somerset county hospital here over the protest of the house physician, A. A. Lawton, when Simpson descended with detectives and an ambulance on the hospital yesterday and demanded her.

After an encounter with Dr. Lawton, in which Simpson brushed his protests aside, Mrs. Gibson was placed in the ambulance and taken to the Jersey City hospital in Simpson's home town. Her temperature was 103. She signed a release absolving the Somerset county hospital of blame if her removal resulted unfavorably.

Dr. Lawton denounced the move as "outrageous" and warned Simpson that it might endanger Mrs. Gibson's life.

Simpson was obdurate. He said he had been given to understand that it had been planned to operate on Mrs. Gibson in Somerville. His surprise move was taken to mean that he had no intention of permitting an operation to endanger his chances of getting Mrs. Gibson to the witness stand before it is too late.

In Jersey City hospital authorities said an immediate operation was not necessary.

Court Room, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 8.—The jury in the Hall-Mills murder case today was given a description of the scene in DeRusse's Lane the night of the murder and testimony that Mrs. Jane Gibson, the state's star witness, had been seen there.

Robert Erling, a young truck driver of New Brunswick, N. J., was the witness.

He told how he and a girl, whom he named after much pressure, as Jennie Lampert, had spent more than an hour in the lane; that Mrs. Gibson once had stopped her mule beside his car; and then he described mysterious comings and goings of automobiles, ranging from popular priced sedans to expensive limousines. He added to the impression that DeRusse's Lane was a busy place that night.

On cross examination Robert McCarter, defending Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, Willie and Henry Stevens of the charges that they murdered the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, suddenly asked: "Do you know Edward Staub?"

"Yes," responded Erling. "Did you meet Staub soon after the reopening of this case and say to him 'Staub, if you want to make some money you can do it by saying

CAR THEFT LAID TO LOCAL MAN

John Mooney Held in Little Falls Jail Charged With Theft

ARRESTED AFTER PURSUIT
Car Taken From Little Falls Picked Up Later at Royalton

John Mooney, Brainerd, is held in the county jail at Little Falls as the person who drove away with Emil Larson's automobile at Little Falls Friday evening and was later arrested at Royalton.

Mr. Larson noticed someone backing his car away from the curb Friday evening. He thought it was a member of his family but as the car got under way saw that it was a stranger. He notified the police and a hunt ensued, resulting in the capture of a man at Royalton later in the evening. He was hailed by the village marshal there but fled on foot as he stopped the car and leaped out of it. The car safe, another hunt was organized and Mooney was picked up and identified as the man who had driven it, according to the Little Falls Transcript.

Each Age of Mankind Had Its Collectors
It is always a matter of surprise to find what type of collector is interested in a particular subject. What ever may be a man's profession, his hobby indicates his real self, says The Market for Exchange. A hobby should afford a complete change from one's workaday environment. For example, Lord Kitchener collected blue and white Chinese Kang-Ho porcelain. J. Pierpont Morgan essayed in vain to be as great an authority on mosque lamps as he was on railroad shares. The prince of Monaco, who derives his income from the green tables of Monte Carlo, expends it on deep-sea scientific research. That famous old character and king of collectors, Horace Walpole, turned his home, Strawberry Hill, into a museum that was the envy of museums.

But collectors are not the product of a recent age. They asserted themselves early in the history of mankind. It is to the collecting habits of certain ancients that we owe much of our knowledge of antiquity. Petrarch for instance, to whom each scrap of writing was as precious as a pearl, was an inveterate collector of classical writings. Domitius Tullius had such a collection of antique statues that a friend once said he bought a garden and was able to furnish it complete in one day from his store of treasures.

Petrarch, of Nero's court, amassed treasures that Nero longed to possess. There is a story that Petronius, before his execution by the command of Nero, broke into bits a precious goblet from which he drank in order that, upon his death, Nero might not have the pleasure of possessing it. Lorenzo de Medici immortalized himself as a collector; and to Cosimo, his grandfather, are due these priceless classical and Oriental manuscripts which form the nucleus of the Laurentian Library in Florence.

Out of Bounds
Marcel Knecht, French delegate to the Philadelphia convention of the Advertising Clubs of the World, said in his excellent English to an interviewer:

"Success in all lines means resourcefulness. Your successful man is your resourceful man. Yet there is such a thing as being too resourceful—overstepping the bounds, you know.
"Tom Jones was too resourceful. He said to his partner, John Brown: "Times are terrible. We'll bust in a week unless we have a well-a burglary."
"A burglary?" said Jack Brown. "Why not the customary fire?"
"No, no," said Jones. "A burglary's best. You see, if we have a burglary and the insurance people don't pay up, why, anyhow, we don't lose nothing."

Bandit Bee Never Reforms
Bees have everything except hospitals and jails, says Mrs. Hamilton, bee woman, according to Capper's Weekly. They have no hospitals because illness is a crime punishable by immediate execution. There are bandit bees, but bee policemen guard the hive entrance and drive the robbers away. A bandit bee, says Mrs. Hamilton, never reforms—like some human bandits we know. Bees have storage houses, water plants and nurseries, where bee babies are fed on a special mixture of honey and water. Bumble bees, or other aliens that invade a hive, are immediately killed and the bodies thrown out. A mouse is stung to death, but being too large to eject is sealed in a tomb more enduring than King Tut's. Honey is not sweet, says Mrs. Hamilton. It is an acid that seems sweet.

Marvelous Accuracy
Amazing records of accuracy in timekeeping are revealed in the Longines watch exhibit in the Palace of Foreign Exhibits at the Sesqui-centennial International exposition, now being held in Philadelphia. The display is that of A. Wittnauer, of Switzerland.
The exhibit includes a desk watch which was accorded official government honors at the Teddington observatory, England; the Neuchatel observatory, Switzerland, and Geneva observatory, Switzerland. In each test the timepiece was awarded first prize. The error in compensation after six weeks of observation was less than four one-hundredths of a second.

Recipe for Ideal Life
In the effort to appreciate various forms of greatness, let us not underestimate the value of a simply good life. Just to be good, to keep life pure from degrading elements, to make it constantly helpful in little ways to those who are touched by it, to keep one's spirit always sweet, and avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability—that is an ideal as noble as it is difficult.—Edward Howard Griggs.

ALL NIGHT SEARCH FOR WIFE WHO LEFT HOME AFTER QUARREL

Fairmont, Minn., Nov. 8.—(UP)—After an all night search had been conducted Mrs. Fred Nassulke, 28, wife of a farmer living near Fairmont, was found today at the house of friends 20 miles northwest of here.

Mrs. Nassulke left her home Sunday evening after a quarrel with her husband, leaving no word of where she was going.

Fifteen farmers searched all night for her.

MARX CABINET IS DEFEATED IN GERMANY

Berlin, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Chancellor Marx's cabinet was defeated in the reichstag today when a socialist motion to increase government doles paid to unemployed persons was passed by 205 votes to 141. The socialist motion sought an increase of 30 per cent. The government was willing to agree to a 10 per cent increase.

Dear friends:

I notice that lots of men prefer wrist watches. Got used to 'em during the war.

Mr. Lundborg says when a man once gets used to the convenience of a wrist watch, he isn't satisfied with any other kind. A simple twist of the wrist and you've got the time of day.

I asked the boss a few minutes ago what a wrist watch costs. He says, "What does a house cost?" I say, "Different prices, I suppose." And he says, "Same with wrist watches."

They have them here at the store from $3.50 to $55.00.

I know a lady who bought one for her husband. Think that over, ladies.

ARRESTED AFTER PURSUIT

Car Taken From Little Falls Picked Up Later at Royalton

John Mooney, Brainerd, is held in the county Jail at Little Falls as the person who drove away with Emil Larson's automobile at Little Falls Friday evening and was later arrested at Royalton.

Mr. Larson noticed someone backing his car away from the curb Friday evening. He thought it was a member of his family but as the car got under way saw that it was a stranger. He notified the police and a hunt ensued, resulting in the capture of a man at Royalton later in the evening. He was hailed by the village marshal there but fled on foot as he stopped the car and leaped out of it. The car safe, another hunt was organized and Mooney was picked up and identified as the man who had driven it, according to the Little Falls Transcript.

Each Age of Mankind Had Its Collectors

It is always a matter of surprise to find what type of collector is interested in a particular subject. Whatever may be a man's profession, his hobby indicates his real self, says The Market for Exchange. A hobby should afford a complete change from one's workaday environment. For example, Lord Kitchener collected blue and white Chinese Kung-Ho porcelain. J. Pierpont Morgan essayed in vain to be as great an authority on mosque lamps as he was on railroad shares. The prince of Monaco, who derives his income from the green tables of Monte Carlo, expends it on deep-sea scientific research. That famous old character and king of collectors, Horace Walpole, turned his home, Strawberry Hill, into a museum that was the envy of museums.

But collectors are not the product of a recent age. They asserted themselves early in the history of mankind. It is to the collecting habits of certain ancients that we owe much of our knowledge of antiquity. Petrarch for instance, to whom each scrap of writing was as precious as a pearl, was an inveterate collector of classical writings. Domitius Tullius had such a collection of antique statues that a friend once said he bought a garden and was able to furnish it complete in one day from his store of treasures. Petronius, of Nero's court, amassed treasures that Nero longed to possess. There is a story that Petronius, before his execution by the command of Nero, broke into bits a precious goblet from which he drank in order that, upon his death, Nero might not have the pleasure of possessing it. Lorenzo de Medici immortalized himself as a collector; and to Cosimo, his grandfather, are due these priceless classical and Oriental manuscripts which form the nucleus of the Laurentian library in Florence.

Out of Bounds

Marcel Knecht, French delegate to the Philadelphia convention of the Advertising Clubs of the World, said in his excellent English to an interviewer:

"Success in all lines means resourcefulness. Your successful man is your resourceful man. Yet there is such a thing as being too resourceful—overstepping the bounds, you know.

"Tom Jones was too resourceful. He said to his partner, John Brown: 'Times are terrible. We'll bust in a week unless we have a well-a-burglary.'

"A burglary? said Jack Brown. 'Why not the customary fire?'
"No, no," said Jones. 'A burglary's best. You see, if we have a burglary and the insurance people don't pay up, why, anyhow, we don't lose nothing!'

Bandit Bee Never Reforms

Bees have everything except hospitals and jails, says Mrs. Hamilton, bee woman, according to Capper's Weekly. They have no hospitals because illness is a crime punishable by immediate execution. There are bandit bees, but bee policemen guard the hive entrance and drive the robbers away. A bandit bee, says Mrs. Hamilton, never reforms—like some human bandits we know. Bees have storage houses, water plants and nurseries, where bee babies are fed on a special mixture of honey and water. Bumble bees, or other aliens that invade a hive, are immediately killed and the bodies thrown out. A mouse is stung to death, but being too large to eject is sealed in a tomb more enduring than King Tut's. Honey is not sweet, says Mrs. Hamilton. It is an acid that seems sweet.

Marvelous Accuracy

Amazing records of accuracy in timekeeping are revealed in the Longines watch exhibit in the Palace of Foreign Exhibiting at the Sesqui-centennial International exposition, now being held in Philadelphia. The display is that of A. Wittnauer, of Switzerland.

The exhibit includes a desk watch which was accorded official government honors at the Teddington observatory, England; the Neuchatel observatory, Switzerland, and Geneva observatory, Switzerland. In each test the timepiece was awarded first prize. The error in compensation after six weeks of observation was less than four one-hundredths of a second.

Recipe for Ideal Life

In the effort to appreciate various forms of greatness, let us not underestimate the value of a simply good life. Just to be good, to keep life pure from degrading elements, to make it constantly helpful in little ways to those who are touched by it, to keep one's spirit always sweet, and avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability—that is an ideal as noble as it is difficult.—Edward Howard Griggs.

ALL NIGHT SEARCH FOR WIFE WHO LEFT HOME AFTER QUARREL

Fairmont, Minn., Nov. 8.—(UP)—After an all night search had been conducted Mrs. Fred Nassulke, 28, wife of a farmer living near Fairmont, was found today at the house of friends 20 miles northwest of here.

Mrs. Nassulke left her home Sunday evening after a quarrel with her husband, leaving no word of where she was going.

Fifteen farmers searched all night for her.

Dear friends:

I notice that lots of men prefer wrist watches. Got used to 'em during the war.

Mr. Lundborg says when a man once gets used to the convenience of a wrist watch, he isn't satisfied with any other kind. A simple twist of the wrist and you've got the time of day.

I asked the boss a few minutes ago what a wrist watch costs. He says, "What does a house cost?" I says, "Different prices, I suppose." And he says, "Same with wrist watches."

They have them here at the store from $3.50 to $55.00.

I know a lady who bought one for her husband. Think that over, ladies.

TWO 12 YEAR BOYS LITERALLY DIED OF FRIGHT

STRANGE TRAGEDY OCCURRED WHILE 2 BOYS WERE RETURNING FROM HUNTING

SMALL REVOLVER, ONLY WEAPON ON THEM HAD, INDIRECT CAUSE OF BOTH DEATHS

Lebanon, N. H., Nov. 8.—(UP)—Two 12-year-old boys were literally frightened to death here.

The strange tragedy occurred while Roland Gray and his school mate Fred Gray were returning from a hunting trip along the shore of the Connecticut river.

A .22 revolver, the only weapon they had, was the indirect cause of both deaths.

The gun was discharged accidentally in Fred's hands. The bullet struck Roland who collapsed, shrieking. Bewildered, Fred regarded his fallen companion, then turned and dashed through the woods.

A few minutes later, Mrs. C. G. Austin of West Lebanon, saw Fred, wild eyed with terror, climb onto the guard rail of the White River Junction bridge, which spans the Connecticut river.

Mrs. Austin, who was crossing the bridge, hurried toward him, grabbed his coat and asked what he was trying to do.

"I'm going to jump into the river," Fred cried.

Then he wrenched himself free from the woman's hold and leaped to his death in the swirling waters, 30 feet below.

Subsequent search of the river failed to reveal the boy's body. Roland's body was found yesterday where he had fallen. When Dr. H. S. Hazen, Lebanon's health officer, removed the clothing the bullet rolled out. It had pierced Roland's coat and underclothes but had merely bruised the boy's left side.

POLICE THINKING THEY WILL BREAK UP BANDIT GANG

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 8.—(UP)—With the arrest of Martin Christ Ahle, New Lum, Minn., 23 years old, and Lyle W. Richards, 29, Clear Lake, Ia., police believed today they have broken up the gang of filling station bandits who have terrorized neighboring towns for the past month.

Ahle and Richards have confessed to a dozen robberies, implicating G. Graham, 38, barber, and Melvin Bugher, alias Matt Miller, chauffeur, Omaha, according to police.

Red Cross Life-Saving Service Is Nation-Wide

Scarcity of water apparently has no effect on interest in water rescue. Arizona, popularly associated with wide desert stretches and cactus, has gone in with enthusiasm for the Red Cross Life-Saving program.

The building of new irrigation dams is rapidly transforming Arizona into a swimming State despite popular conception of that country.

In more than 800 swimming institutes conducted by the Red Cross the last summer, life-saving instruction was given by the Red Cross.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, 7,145 men, 5,498 women, and 16,718 juniors passed the rigid tests of the Red Cross Life-Saving Service, and were awarded insignia. The total for the year of 29,266 represents an increase of 6,374 over the previous year. The total membership of this corps at the close of the year was 102,076.

The Tenth Annual Roll Call from November 11 to 25 is an opportunity to encourage these efforts through membership in the Red Cross.

The Tenth Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross is held this year from November 11 to 25. It is an invitation to you to endorse with your membership its wide reaching service to humanity.

ACCIDENTS TAKE HEAVY TOLL IN THE TWIN CITIES

St. Paul, Nov. 8.—(UP)—Accidents took a heavy toll in and around the Twin Cities over the week end. Three were killed in automobile mishaps and 17 were injured by automobiles or while hunting.

The dead were:

John F. Pikal, of St. Paul, killed in an automobile accident near New Prague, Minn.

Wilbur McCordle, of St. Paul, killed along the Hudson road, when his automobile left the highway and ran into a lake.

L. H. McCordle, a cousin, was seriously hurt in the same accident.

An unidentified man, struck at a street intersection in St. Paul.

EVANGELIST EXPRESSES VIEWS IN SERMON TO CONGREGATION OF 9,000

"LITTLE BLUE TRUNK" AND RED HAIR CLUE, CREATIONS OF SATAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 8.—(UP)—The devil, "the greatest liar in Los Angeles," personally devised the plot against her, Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, told a congregation of 9,000 in her Angelus Temple yesterday.

All the stories about her supposed trip to the seaside with Kenneth G. Ormiston, missing radio operator at the temple, and the "little blue trunk" with its red hair clues and women's finery, were creations of Satan, Mrs. McPherson said.

The evangelist, who is awaiting trial on charges of perjury and conspiracy in connection with her alleged trip, which she explained by telling a story of having been kidnapped and held for ransom, had promised a week ago to name "the greatest liar in Los Angeles" in her sermon yesterday.

A vast audience gathered to hear her name him. Through a two-hour sermon, they heard the evangelist defend herself—but still the villain was unnamed. At the end of the sermon, Mrs. McPherson reached her climax and shouted:

"The devil—rival of Munchausen."

Shoes in Stone Age

Did Stone age men wear shoes, is an interesting question. The Stone age men hunted or tamed animals. They used the flesh of those animals for food, the furs for clothing and the leather often for sandals just as much as we do nowadays; and they made them out of leather, as we do. Only the shape was very much cruder.

Black Dots on Map of United States Mark the Areas of Big Disasters

The Red Cross has served in 854 disasters since 1905

NE map not included in the geography of school days explains why the American Red Cross wants everyone to become a member of its nationwide organization during the Tenth Annual Roll Call this year, from November 11 to 25.

For every dot on the map, the American Red Cross has served the United States in a disaster involving more than $5,000 in relief work. Since 1905 the American Red Cross has served in a total of 854 disasters. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1926, it extended relief in 90 disasters, of which 62 were in the United States.

The original of the disaster map of the United States is on display at Red Cross National Headquarters in Washington, and the dots are marked with distinctive colors for each class of catastrophe in which relief was rendered. Some are tornadoes, some mine explosions, others are earthquakes, fires, floods, storms, cyclones, epidemics of disease, and similar calamities.

The frequency of the sinister dots confirms the contention of Red Cross disaster relief experts that no community is free from danger, and that no one can foretell when disaster will strike.

More than 3,500 Red Cross chapters in the United States, with a National Organization which includes a trained force of disaster relief workers, serve as a protection to the whole country in the face of such perils.

A similar map of the world would show that the American Red Cross is never too busy to help other nations in distress. While emergency relief was at its height in Florida, the Red Cross offered assistance to Paraguay, South America, where a hurricane also had created great havoc, while its records show many similar services in the past.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 8.—(UP)—The devil, "the greatest liar in Los Angeles," personally devised the plot against her, Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, told a congregation of 9,000 in her Angelus Temple yesterday.

All the stories about her supposed trip to the seaside with Kenneth G. Ormiston, missing radio operator at the temple, and the "little blue trunk" with its red hair clues and women's finery, were creations of Satan, Mrs. McPherson said.

The evangelist, who is awaiting trial on charges of perjury and conspiracy in connection with her alleged trip, which she explained by telling a story of having been kidnapped and held for ransom, had promised a week ago to name "the greatest liar in Los Angeles" in her sermon yesterday.

A vast audience gathered to hear her name him. Through a two-hour sermon, they heard the evangelist defend herself—but still the villain was unnamed. At the end of the sermon, Mrs. McPherson reached her climax and shouted: "The devil—rival of Munchausen."

Shoes in Stone Age

Did Stone age men wear shoes, is an interesting question. The Stone age men hunted or tamed animals. They used the flesh of those animals for food, the furs for clothing and the leather often for sandals just as much as we do nowadays; and they made them out of leather, as we do. Only the shape was very much cruder.

Black Dots on Map of United States Mark the Areas of Big Disasters

A NEW MAP OF THE UNITED STATES - the DISASTER MAP which SHOWS the LOCATION OF EVERY CATASTROPHE in which the RED CROSS HAS SERVED.

The Red Cross has served in 854 disasters since 1905

NE map not included in the geography of school days explains why the American Red Cross wants everyone to become a member of its nation-wide organization during the Tenth Annual Roll Call this year, from November 11 to 25.

For every dot on the map, the American Red Cross has served the United States in a disaster involving more than $5,000 in relief work. Since 1905 the American Red Cross has served in a total of 854 disasters. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1926, it extended relief in 90 disasters, of which 62 were in the United States.

The original of the disaster map of the United States is on display at Red Cross National Headquarters in Washington, and the dots are marked with distinctive colors for each class of catastrophe in which relief was rendered. Some are tornadoes, some mine explosions, others are earthquakes, fires, floods, storms, cyclones, epidemics of disease, and similar calamities.

The frequency of the sinister dots confirms the contention of Red Cross disaster relief experts that no community is free from danger, and that no one can foretell when disaster will strike.

More than 3,500 Red Cross Chapters in the United States, with a National Organization which includes a trained force of disaster relief workers, serve as a protection to the whole country in the face of such perils.

A similar map of the world would show that the American Red Cross is never too busy to help other nations in distress. While emergency relief was at its height in Florida, the Red Cross offered assistance to Paraguay, South America, where a hurricane also had created great havoc, while its records show many similar services in the past.

The oldest book in the English language is alleged to be "De Proprietatibus Rerum," by Bartholomew de Glanville, who wrote in the Fourteenth century. It was translated into English by Trevisa after it had been printed in folio form by Caxton in 1480, and probably the translation was made from the Caxton folio. The translation was published by Wynkin de Worde in 1507.

BURN YOUR OWN SMOKE

UNDER the heading "Burn Your Own Smoke," the Duluth News Tribune of recent date takes up phases of improving civic welfare which apply to other cities besides Duluth. To make the truth of the Duluth contention strike home, just substitute the name of your town or any town for that of Duluth.

Duluth has a newly adopted smoke ordinance which is to be invoked to put a stop to the smoke evil, effect a saving that will benefit business, and leave the air pure and clean for breathing purposes.

But there is another kind of "smoke evil" that is doing untold damage in Duluth, that hurts both business and health, and that is the black smoke of pessimism. The damage to the city that is caused by talk of imaginary "rotten business conditions," by the soot-laden smoke of pessimism and the monoxide gas of gossip, is far greater than that done by the smoke that emanates from the chimneys.

Just as factories and other buildings should install smoke consumers, so should individuals "consume their own smoke." Pessimistic talk, knocking and whining never bettered business nor helped to build a city.

Pessimism is a contagious and insidious malady if allowed to spread. But the spirit of pessimism would soon vanish if everyone made it a point to talk optimism and boost.

Business conditions in Duluth are far from being "rotten," but they could be made much better if all the people in the city would co-operate to make them better. But when a man on his way downtown in the morning, his mind keen for a good day's work, is in turn to listen to a lot of street talk of "rotten" business, he is forced to become pessimistic, and probably before he knows it, he is relaying the talk to others until it becomes a pernicious endless chain.

Pessimism has a bad psychological effect. It tends to create more pessimism, to head off constructive endeavor and to deaden initiative.

What has become of the spirit of Duluth's hardy pioneers? The problems they faced in reclaiming this rocky hillside, were a hundred times greater and more disheartening than any problem in Duluth today. But they had courage and strength of character and foresight. They did not sit back and talk and criticize. They faced their tasks bravely and worked unceasingly to build the city which they were able to visualize.

These old pioneers gave Duluth a well-earned reputation of having a fighting spirit and made its name a synonym for accomplishment. The people of today have had their greatest problems solved for them.

What Duluth needs today is for all its people to combine and get down to work for the common good. If they will forget petty jealousies, smother pessimism, and boost, co-operate and work together for the common good, then Duluth will grow and prosper in a healthy, happy way. Upon the welfare of the city depends the welfare of its people.

Everything that helps build up Duluth, everything that aids in the growth of the city, will aid and benefit every business and every individual here. Stop knocking and hear opportunity knock. Burn your own smoke.

WHY BRAINERD CELEBRATES

USING the heading, "Why Brainerd Celebrates," Winthrop Chamberlain, associate editor of the Minneapolis Journal, writes one of the finest editorials on our new paving and what it means to Brainerd and the state at large. It is written with discrimination and that rare understanding of his subject which distinguishes all editorials of the Minneapolis Journal. We quote in full from the Minneapolis Journal of Saturday, November 6:

From Brainerd, gateway to much of the Northern Minnesota pine country, clear down to Steele Center, only thirty-five miles from the Iowa border, there now extends an unbroken line of paved highway.

No wonder Brainerd is inviting the whole State to the jubilee which it will stage next Saturday to celebrate completion of the northern link of this great north-and-south artery.

Brainerd is in touch with the rest of the North Country, all the way up to the Canadian border, by means of fine roads, one of these highways connecting at Grand Rapids with the heavily traveled east-and-west pavement traversing the Iron Range.

Traveling from Brainerd to Itasca Park, to Leech Lake, to Detroit Lakes, to Lake of the Woods, to Rainy Lake, to Lake Vermilion, to Superior National Forest, or to almost any other travel center of the North Woods region, has, for some time now, been a most pleasant and enjoyable experience.

Traveling from Minneapolis, or from any point between Minneapolis and Central Iowa, northward to Little Falls similarly has been a most pleasant and enjoyable experience. The only weak link in the travel chain has been the detour between Little Falls and Brainerd.

And now the weak link has finally been eliminated. The two-year-old detour, which even at its best was never adequate to handle the heavy traffic load imposed upon it, has been replaced by the brand new concrete paving, following the old route up the Mississippi, through Fort Ripley, Crow Wing, and the picturesque deserted village of Barrows.

Not only Brainerd profits by the completion of this new and strong link, but every Minnesotan, and nearly every tourist who comes to Minnesota. All the rest of us should feel just as glad about it as Brainerd feels.

PRACTICE MAY RESULT IN INJURY OR DEATH

TWIN CITY motorists have told the Brainerd Dispatch of the practice of school children at a country school on the Oak street road east of Brainerd. They run out on the pavement to greet cars and thus cause motorists to grow gray in attempting to side-step the kids.

One motorist, a travelingman who makes this territory and has relatives in Brainerd, said he swerved aside to miss two effusive children and in turn was nearly run into by a car coming the opposite direction, whose driver had all he could do to thread between other kids and avoid striking them.

We wish the school teacher of any school on a trunk highway would impress it upon her charges to be careful, observe highway rules and to put a stop to this "greeting" business of running out on the highway in the path of cars.

BRAINERD
25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

Nov. 7, 1901

Rev. S. W. Hoyer, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city was given a very happy surprise last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lunberg in East Brainerd, the event being the anniversary of his thirtieth birthday. He had been invited to spend the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lunberg with members of the church and friends, and when the opportune moment presented itself, Secretary Wilhelm of the Y. M. C. A. on behalf of those assembled presented Rev. Hoyer with a very elegant new overcoat. Mr. Hoyer responded in a happy vein.

The night shift at the Brainerd Lumber Company Mills in this city was let out the first of the month and the present indications are that the mill will close for the winter very soon. Nearly all of the night men have gone to the woods and most of the men who are now on the day shift are expected to go into camp as soon as the mill closes down.

M. H. V. Young formerly of Akron, Ohio, but of late a resident of Minneapolis is in the city and he has been interesting some of the business men of the city for the past day or two in the organization of a local building and loan association.

A meeting of those interested, business men and wage earners will be held this evening at the Arlington hotel to consider the feasibility of organizing an association.

There are those who will not look with favor on such a move as an association of this nature organized in this city failed and the affairs are now in the hands of a receiver, but Mr. Young states that notwithstanding this fact he is greeted with a ready response.

THE NEED OF UNITY

In Washington are two large office buildings. One imposing and well equipped block is owned and occupied by the American Federation of Labor. The other, still larger and better equipped, is the home of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Labor speaks with a single voice, through the organization chartered in their large and elaborate building.

Industry speaks with a single voice, through the organization quartered in their still larger and more elaborate building. Both get very largely everything they ask in legislation for the betterment of their interests.

Agriculture has no large and imposing headquarters in Washington, and what is more important, it does not speak with a single voice. It must do so if American agriculture is to secure and hold its place in the American economic structure.

Agriculture is working in that direction, through its commodity and social organizations, but because those engaged in it are so numerous, are of so vastly varied types, and are so financially restricted, the progress is necessarily slow. Until the time has arrived when agriculture's varied forces are in united and consistent array, that industry will lag unless there is recognition of its needs and of the benefits that will accrue to all communities through the proper meeting of them.

Farming and the business interests which directly serve it well need to stand together in this day of changing conditions. There are opportunities for accomplishing betterments in much less time than the past years have afforded. Farmers do not ask nor want the people of the towns doing things "for" them, and in recognition and commendation of this spirit, the business men of Brainerd offer their co-operation "with" them in any way it can be of help, and so further the common interests of both country and town.

Open Air Is Best

The open air is better than any auditorium ever devised, as far as clearness of hearing is concerned, according to a recent report of University of California physicists. The walls of a room may increase the general loudness of speech sounds, but this is more than counteracted by the confusing reverberations the walls introduce. A room that is carefully padded with hair-felt, or that is built with a porous, spongy wall-plaster, will approach, though not equal, open-air conditions.

Singing Insects

The ancient Greeks kept cicadae in cages for the sake of their songs. They were favorites with most Greek poets. A cicada sitting on a harp was a usual emblem of music, in explanation of which there was a story of two rival musicians, Ennomus and Ariston, the former of whom broke a string of his harp one day when competing with the latter. A cicada, however, flew to his rescue and sitting upon the harp supplied the place of the broken string and so won him the victory. Fabre thinks the Greek cicadae would be crickets.

Cancer Attacks Spinners

Among the cotton spinners in England a noticeable prevalence of cancer has been reported. The cause is thought to be due to the prolonged action of mineral oil used in oiling the spindles of the mules, which gets on the men's clothing. Between the ages of forty-five and fifty-five the disease is 60 times greater among the spinners than other persons, and between fifty-five and seventy-five about 100 times more prevalent than among the general population.

Breeds Butterflies

Butterfly farming is a career new to most people. But at least one man has made a success of it. He labels himself a lepidopterist and he has a farm at Bexley, Kent, England, devoted to nothing else but breeding of butterflies and moths—millions of them.

They are reared on trees and bushes covered with muslin bags, and are exported to museums, schools, and colleges in all parts of the world.

Breeds Butterflies

Butterfly farming is a career new to most people. But at least one man has made a success of it. He labels himself a lepidopterist and he has a farm at Bexley, Kent, England, devoted to nothing else but breeding of butterflies and moths—millions of them.

They are reared on trees and bushes covered with muslin bags, and are exported to museums, schools, and colleges in all parts of the world.

Utopian Idea

Ah, how happy would many lives be if individuals troubled themselves as little about other people's affairs as about their own.—Lichtenberg.

13 PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM OHIO PRISON

ONE CONVICT, TWO GUARDS AND
SECRETARY TO WARDEN
WERE WOUNDED

6 OF CONVICTS KIDNAP WOMAN
AND ESCAPE IN HER
AUTOMOBILE

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 1.—Thirteen prisoners escaped from the Ohio penitentiary here this afternoon after a gun fight with guards in which one convict and two guards and the secretary to Warden Thomas were wounded.

The captain of the prison guard and a telephone switchboard operator were clubbed by the convicts.

Shortly after the dash for liberty two of the prisoners were recaptured but six others, who kidnaped a woman when they seized an automobile to make good their escape, were engaging in a running gun battle with a heavy detail of pursuing police.

The woman's screams as the convicts seized her automobile attracted police who gave chase. As the speeding automobile dashed through the residential district, police and the convicts exchanged a rapid fire.

The woman, whose identity was not learned, was being held powerless on the rear seat of the automobile by her captors and at times the fugitives used her as a shield from the hail of police bullets.

Hudson Seal Coat Will Be Popular This Winter

Hudson seal coats are again to be in the fashion plate the coming winter. The model shown has a stand-up collar and cuffs of tan muskrat.

Clothing the Baby in Winter and in Summer

Babies may wear the same weight clothes in winter as in summer, except that during the colder months warm jackets and caps are to be added. In warm weather a thin cap of muslin or silk is sufficient. It is important to remember that an infant's head should always be cool, while his feet should be warm.

Sleep periods are frequent, and during the first months, of long duration—hence, the importance of the nightgown. Flannellette and stockinette will both prove adequate, and it is an excellent plan to have a drawstring at the lower hemline.

For the first six months it will not be found necessary to make many additions to the original layette—thereafter many new items will be added. The first additions will be short, plain dresses and gettrudes. Later, when the crawling days approach, it will be found advisable to add several suits of rompers and a simple, practical pair of shoes.

Wool is the best, indeed, almost the only practical material for coverlets. Cotton is banned, because at least several cotton covers will be required to provide sufficient warmth, and these will be too heavy for the ever delicate infant. Even the wool covering must be of the lightest sort, incorporating warmth without weight.

Dress for Children Is Simpler Than in Past

Dress for children according to the best standards is simple—simpler in a way than it has ever been, but with definite ideals that are difficult to express. The little, much ruffled girl of older styles was far more easily dressed according to the mode, for she had only to look the part, with a dainty prettiness for her party frocks, and almost any sort of costume was thought to answer for utility. The clothes that are designed this season for girls of all ages from the tiniest toddler to the older girl who goes to school and evening parties are both chic and pretty, and are selected with the purpose of suitability.

Even the most practical play frocks are given an artistic touch, some of them really charming. No well-dressed child appears now in tussy frocks for ordinary wear. Even the dainty things for afternoon and evening have a studied simplicity that is naive and really smart, and the utility garments are made to be both serviceable and becoming. Cotton has been the most popular of all fabrics throughout the summer and will carry on for early fall.

Darning and Sewing Baskets of Soft Straw

Darning and sewing baskets the size of a melon are made of a soft kind of straw. There are double handles to give them added length and permit free access to the contents. Some are lined with bright cretonne, but this is really unnecessary, for the straw is so soft that it is hardly likely to catch and cause a run, even in sheer hose. Purple with a touch of yellow, green combined with rose and brown with a mixture of darker colors are favorite combinations. These baskets are light in weight.

Old Shirt Waist Style May Have Another Call

The waistline is creeping up again. In order to secure this effect some designers are showing models in which the skirt is dovetailed into the bodice. That is, the upper part of the skirt is cut in points which end in the yoke of the bodice. Until now blouses and tunics have been worn over skirts but there is a trend observable toward the old shirt-waist style with the skirt fastened over the blouse with a leather belt.

"PIG WOMAN" IS THE STAR WITNESS

you were in DeRussey's Lane the night of the murder?" McCarter queried.

"Staub talked to me but I don't remember it," the witness replied.

On redirect examination Simpson devoted attention to the motor cars Erling said he had seen in the lane.

The first car to leave, he said, was a small sedan which looked like a Ford.

"How many people were in the car?"

"Just one man."

"Could you identify him if you saw him again?"

"No, I think not. But he had a mustache."

Erling then said that the cars had been parked about 200 feet from the crap apple tree under which the bodies were found. He said he was 2,000 feet down the lane from where the cars were parked and had no idea the cars were parked there until the lights were turned on.

"You have heard that Mrs. Hall has a Dodge sedan?" asked McCarter.

"Yes," said Erling.

The defendants, who were closely listening to Erling, were patently bored.

Willie Stevens laid the palms of his hands on his knees and played an absorbing game, wherein one hand went up while the other stayed down.

Mrs. Hall disapproved of this sign of nervousness and whispered to her brother. Willie grinned and desisted. Henry Stevens sat stolidly.

TAMED BULL SNAKE THAT BECAME PET

How Kindness Made Wild Creature Harmless.

An old adobe wall inclosed the kitchen garden at the Los Flores ranch-house in southern California. No one remembered when it was built and no one remembered when part of it had fallen into decay. The owner of the ranch decided to rebuild the broken sections and delegated half a dozen of his men to do the work.

While they were removing a pile of crumbling earth, they disturbed a fat young chestnut-brown bull snake about three feet in length. Most of the men wanted to kill the snake, but Jose, a Mexican youth who rode the line fences daily, prevailed upon them to spare the young snake and his cavern home.

Time passed, the snake was frequently seen around the barn and out-buildings where he hunted rats and mice. Jose called him "Hank" and implored the other men to treat him with respect.

At first Hank was shy. He would hurry out of sight and coil under the nearest cover at the sound of approaching footsteps. By the middle of summer he seemed to understand that he had a perfect right to enjoy all the privileges of other pets. For hours at a time he would back in the sun on the top step of the south porch at the ranch-house and another favored spot was the one step at the bank-house where Jose slept.

During the winter he lived more secluded in his adobe cavern, rarely appearing on damp, cloudy days. Then it was that Jose began cultivating a closer acquaintance. With bits of meat and lumps of sugar he would sit near Hank's front door and strum on his ukulele. After a few minutes, the dark head of the snake would appear, his little beady eyes taking on a soft expression and his mouth open in expectation.

Jose always gave him two lumps of sugar, then the meat and finished with two more lumps of sweet. After he had swallowed the tidbits he would crawl close to the side of the young man and listen to the soft dreamy sounds coming from the strangled instrument. To some of the times he would keep time by swaying motion of his smooth head.

When the hills began wearing their coats of green, Hank was so tame that Jose carried him around the ranch on the trips of fence inspection. If a broken wire or a weak staple needed fixing, Jose would place Hank on the ground near by, attend to the mending job, pick the snake up, mount his pony and go on his way.

Whenever Jose would find a gopher hole on the trip he would stop and start Hank down it. Sometimes he would see no more of his pet for two or three days, then Hank would greet him from the adobe cavern.

Jose rode the boundary for five years after the discovery of the snake and, barring the first 12 months, Hank was nearly always his companion. In four years he grew from a slender young string into a handsome big black bull snake seven feet long and about three inches in diameter.

The ranch changed owners. Jose took a position some miles distant. The wife of his new employer objected to the presence of the snake pet. Almost tearfully Jose visited the adobe cavern, gave Hank a farewell supper, and played all their old favorite tunes.

Three weeks after Jose's departure from Los Flores, Hank was found curled up on the step of the bank-house, dead. Those who knew of the strange friendship declared that the bull snake died of a "broken heart."—D. C. Retzlaff in Our Dumb Animals.

Luck at Any Price

Traffic at the intersection of Washington and Alabama streets came to a sudden standstill. A moment later scores of sirens from machines chugging away for nearly a block in each direction shrieked their impatience while motorists leaning out of their cars craned their necks to see what it was all about. A "diver" had come to a dead stop on the tracks a few feet from a street car guard!

Out of the front seat of the small car climbed the driver. He bent over between the machine and the street car and picked up a horseshoe. In a great state of jubilation he waved it over his head, got back into his car, started the engine again and moved on.—Indianapolis News.

To those accustomed to buying on credit or the installment plan, the following article which appeared in the Memphis, Tenn., News-Scimitar on October 6th, should prove interesting:

"The other day a credit expert was in Memphis. He said merchants are making trouble for themselves by being so free with credit. They make it possible for most anybody to buy most anything, he said, and then pay for it as best they can.

"Yesterday two firemen were listed in the bankruptcy column. One listed debts of $1,400, the other of $1,800. The latter listed two pleasure automobiles among his assets, and perhaps they typify the reason for so many bankruptcies among persons of comparatively small incomes.

The Other Writer
Harold Bell Wright can put rather bitterly. Invited to a hot weather Bohemian party, he was informed that among the guests would be Mr. Blank, a highbrow novelist whose scorn of Mr. Wright is well known, but whose books fail to sell.

"You know Mr. Blank, don't you?" asked the hostess.

"Ah, yes," murmured Mr. Wright. "The young intellectual, you mean?"

Dog tired from motor travel since 3 o'clock this morning when he left Duluth, "Babe" Ruth, the "Sultan of Swat," who is appearing as a headliner on the Pantages circuit, arrived in Brainerd this morning at 7 o'clock for a two hour rest before continuing on his way to Fargo where he will appear for three days, leaving directly from there for a tour of vaudeville on the Pacific coast.

"Babe" Ruth this morning, in an exclusive interview with The Brainerd Daily Dispatch, denied press reports that he was a holdout next year for the New York Yankees.

"I am not a holdout," the Babe is quoted as saying. "I emphatically deny the story that has been sent out and you can tell them so. Hornsby might be a holdout but I propose to rejoin the Yanks next year, although I hope for an increase in my salary. The Yanks put up a good, stiff fight for the championship and if it wasn't for the tough breaks in the last game and the two errors, the Yanks would have won the championship."

"Babe" Ruth stated that he weighed 220 pounds, was in good condition and planned to stay that way. He will continue in vaudeville until his 15 weeks' engagement has expired. From that time on till next baseball season he will resume vigorous training to keep himself in condition.

The art of relaxation was shown by the "Bambino," when he arrived in Brainerd at the New Brainerd hotel. As all athletes know, weariness and the ability to carry on even though fagged out, relaxation and sleep is the necessary thing.

Ruth, when he stopped at the New Brainerd hotel, immediately sank into relaxation in one of the chairs in the lobby. He is well over 6 feet in height and despite his weight, carries himself with grace. He is particularly nimble on his feet. He wore a coonskin coat, the collar well around his ears. He was accompanied by James Keefe, representative of Ruth's manager, Christie Walsh. Ruth, while in Minneapolis, met Joesting, of the Gopher football squad, and "Babe," eager to learn a little of the art of football, allowed the "Owatonna pile driver" to tackle him. The tackle was not as gentle as the "Babe" had anticipated, but he reported today that he had completely recovered from any bruises.

The tour is being made in a Buick special sedan.

Ruth expressed great pleasure at stopping over in the home town of his old and reliable friend, Les Bush. The "Babe" and Bush, Brainerd's pride in the big league, are close friends. While Bush served up the hot ones from the Yankee mound, Ruth was his closest and best friend on the team. They roomed together on trips, went places together, attended world series games together when they were not in the race themselves and vacationed on several occasions in the Adirondacks.

Ruth expressed the desire that he would have liked to have made himself more well acquainted in Brainerd with the many loyal supporters of "Bullet Joe" Leslie Bush and particularly he desired to meet J. W. Bush, father of his friend. On account of the short time he was allowed in Brainerd, "Mister" Ruth was unable to make many acquaintances.

Ruth is a very genial chap and had it been known he was to have arrived in Brainerd this morning, there undoubtedly would have been a large crowd out to see him. He is particularly attractive to the young ball players who, through his good work, have placed him upon a pedestal of fame, an idol to be always looked up to in baseball.

Following luncheon at the New Brainerd hotel, he rested in the lobby and chatted good-naturedly to those around him.

Henry C. Mills, president of the Lively Auto Co. garage, was among the first to recognize the "Babe." He had seen him play and he immediately recognized him by his form. The coonskin coat which Ruth wore set off his form in even greater manner.

While the actual salary was not stated as to what Ruth receives for his vaudeville performances, it was hinted that he drew down one thousand dollars per week.

Ruth's spectacular showing this year in the world's series assures him a comfortable berth on the Yankee line-up next season with undoubtedly an increase in salary thrown in.

CAN NEBRASKA STOP THE KANSAS AGGIES, QUESTION

BIG QUERY NOW HOVERING
OVER THE MISSOURI VALLEY
CONFERENCE

MISSOURI DEFEATED 7 TO 10
AT THE HANDS OF OKLAHOMA

By DUDLEY E. McFADDEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 8.—There's a big question mark hovering over the Missouri Valley conference.

It is: "Can Nebraska stop the Kansas Aggies?"

Missouri's 7 to 10 defeat at the hands of Oklahoma last Saturday left the valley somewhat perplexed.

Kansas Aggies, Grinnell and Oklahoma Aggies are in a tie for the valley leadership, all undefeated; Nebraska is next in the percentage list while Oklahoma takes third place in the standings and Missouri is dropped to fourth place. Drake, Ames, Kansas and Washington follow in consecutive order.

If the Kansas Aggies go down before Nebraska in the all important game at Lincoln next Saturday, it will leave a still more complicated situation. The Aggies and Missouri were conceded to be the class of the valley but in the event of a Husker win it would place Oklahoma ahead of both these teams as the sooners have played more conference games than either of the others.

Grinnell swamping Kansas 32 to 7 and the Oklahoma Aggies who defeated Washington 37 to 3, both displayed a brand of football almost to give them claims to Valley honors. The two meet at Stillwater next Saturday for another important conference game.

Kansas will take on Oklahoma at Lawrence on Armistice day. In view of Saturday's games the slaughter should be terrific, with the Jayhawk on the receiving end.

Missouri will endeavor to erase the black mark of last Saturday by taking Washington into camp at St. Louis Saturday and should have little difficulty, while Drake and Iowa State will mix at Ames. It is the first week in the present season that all teams have been busy within the conference.

IOWA TEAM SHAKEN

Minnesota Gophers defeated the crippled Iowa team by the score of 41 to 0 in Saturday's football contest at Iowa City, which was featured by the sensational plunging and running of the "Owatonna Battering Ram," Joesting, who added 122 yards to his total gained in scrimmage this year and boosted his season's total to 667 yards.

Joesting is after Red Grange's record for yards gained in a single season and needs 350 yards in the two remaining games to outgain the famous Illinois flash, who set up an all time average record for a fullback.

Saturday's game will stand out as a lasting memorial to the resourcefulness of Dr. Spears. He gave his subs plenty of chances. He had one of the greatest teams in the country on the field at Iowa City. He had Bob Peplaw on the threshold of fame and glory. He had Shorty Alquist at his best and around Hero Joesting he built a deceptive attack that could not be denied.

"BABE" RUTH CAME TO BRAINERD TODAY

DENIES REPORTS HE IS HOLDOUT FOR YANKEES

STAYED IN BRAINERD FOR TWO HOURS TO REST UP; DOG TIRED FROM TRAVEL

IN INTERVIEW WITH DISPATCH, DECLARES HE WILL BE WITH YANKS NEXT YEAR

Dog tired from motor travel since 3 o'clock this morning when he left Duluth, "Babe" Ruth, the "Sultan of Swat," who is appearing as a headliner on the Pantages circuit, arrived in Brainerd this morning at 7 o'clock for a two hour rest before continuing on his way to Fargo where he will appear for three days, leaving directly from there for a tour of vaudeville on the Pacific coast.

"Babe" Ruth this morning, in an exclusive interview with The Brainerd Daily Dispatch, denied press reports that he was a holdout next year for the New York Yankees.

"I am not a holdout," the Babe is quoted as saying. "I emphatically deny the story that has been sent out and you can tell them so. Hornsby might be a holdout but I propose to rejoin the Yanks next year, although I hope for an increase in my salary. The Yanks put up a good, stiff fight for the championship and if it wasn't for the tough breaks in the last game and the two errors, the Yanks would have won the championship."

"Babe" Ruth stated that he weighed 220 pounds, was in good condition and planned to stay that way. He will continue in vaudeville until his 15 weeks' engagement has expired. From that time on till next baseball season he will resume vigorous training to keep himself in condition.

The art of relaxation was shown by the "Bambino," when he arrived in Brainerd at the New Brainerd hotel. As all athletes know, weariness and the ability to carry on even though fagged out, relaxation and sleep is the necessary thing.

Annual Tour of Augler

Bros. Stock Company
Theatregoers of Brainerd will very gladly welcome the Augler Bros. Stock Company this season, starting Monday, Nov. 15 at the New Park theatre. The high-class entertainment they gave us during their week's stay with us last season will no doubt be well remembered by all those who attended their plays. Mr. A. M. Augler, business manager of the company, who is now in the city arranging for their engagements, tells us their company is up to the usual high standard and the repertoire of plays are the best they have ever presented. The opening play will be "The Goose Hangs High." A play of American life, by Lewis Beach.

MAY SEAL ILL FATED MINE FOR ALL TIME, REPORTED

Ishpeming, Mich., Nov. 8.—(UP)—The question of sealing for all time the ill fated Barnes-Hecker mine and permanently entombing the 44 miners entrapped there in the cave in last Wednesday was studied by company officials today. Seven of the 51 miners who lost their lives in this disaster and whose bodies were recovered, have been buried here.

Scouts from Troops 3 and 5 spent Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Camp Clearwater hiking, making a log Adirondack shelter, building and having a good time in general.

Scouts David Templeton, Roger Calahan, Leslie Hagberg, and James Richards had the unique experience of starting out of the cabin Thursday after dinner supposedly with nothing but their axes and such tools, food and blankets, in the face of cold weather, with the necessity of building a shelter in which to sleep at night. After picking a location the fallen timber was quickly cut into logs and hauled to the site and a 10x10 cabin started to take shape. Beavers could have been no more industrious than these boys. As the cabin neared completion the expressions of delight on the faces of the boys was pleasant to see. None of them had ever had the experience of notching the logs so that they fit down snug on top of each other, driving wooden pegs into the logs to hold other parts, cutting hickory wedges to split the logs for the roof, building a reflector fire to heat the cabin, making their beds and rolling into them for the wonderful experience of sleeping in a shelter made by their own hands.

A hike taken over the Chippewa Sioux trail built during past summer gave everybody a thrill because it was vastly different and many new and interesting things were to be seen along the way. As usual, the bagging gave the newcomers a big thrill much to the delight of the old timers.

One could hardly tell about this week end without referring to the copious quantities of food that the boys cooked and stowed away. Bacon, toast, cream of wheat, cocoa for breakfast; delicious beef steak, fried apples, boiled potatoes, pineapple sauce, cookies and cocoa for dinner; baked beans, fried potatoes, bread and butter, cocoa for supper. What more could one want?

The next chance for a Troop to go out for the week end will be the 19th and 20th of this month. Troops wishing to go out at that time should make arrangements very soon.

COMMITTEES AT WORK

Publicity Given Affair in All Leading
Papers of the State

Every effort is being made by the General Committee and other committees in charge of the paving celebration to be held here on November 13, which is next Saturday, to advertise the event throughout the entire state, northwest, and parts of Canada affected by the new pavement.

People in the city are keenly enthusiastic over the coming event. Stickers which can be had at the Brainerd Daily Dispatch office are going fast and many have offered assistance in placarding the stickers on automobiles in other cities of the state. The busses travelling throughout the state are seen to carry stickers and through the wide publicity it has already received through the newspapers, a large crowd is expected to attend.

Motorists in the city will also be interested in hanging up a record for the number of cars over the new paving on the celebration day so all car owners will be anxious to join in the parade.

William V. Turcotte chairman of the parade committee promises to put on a great revue of vehicles and is working hard securing vehicles of old date.

Stickers may also be secured at the Park and Lyceum theatres box offices.

The committee will meet again tonight to further discuss plans for the celebration.

48TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Neighbors and Friends Gather,
Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Geo.
Stilwell in Celebration

OLD TIMES REENACTED

Costumes of 50 Years Ago Worn by the Guests, Old Songs
Sung

"Ye old times" were re-enacted Sunday evening when a large group of neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Stilwell, 414 Pine street to help the worthy couple celebrate their forty-eighth wedding anniversary. Costumes of the vintage of fifty years ago were in evidence many couples coming in the gala attire of their own wedding day.

Music was furnished by Mr. Fitzsimmons, pianist, and Messrs. Mitchell and Isaacson with banjos. Old fashioned songs were sung and five hundred years of old time music was played. It was marvellous to see some of the old time dances, the light fantastic as in the days of yore, dancing being one of the features of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Stilwell were presented with a pair of beautiful wool blankets accompanied by the good will of the following: Messrs. and Mesdames Ed. Hall of Ironton, Wm. Stilwell, Rundquist and son David, Ed. Fink, Geo. Lucas, W. Campbell, A. Ellingboe, Clifford Russell, Wm. Fitzharris, J. H. Mueller, Albert Conners, E. Thomas, John Nelson, Roy Hall, P. A. NEW BATTLE OVER WATERS OF GREAT LAKES

HALF A DOZEN STATES NOW AR-
RAYED ON EITHER SIDE

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES TAKES
TESTIMONY IN WISCONSIN-
ILLINOIS CASE

Washington, Nov. 8.—(UP)—A new battle over the waters of the Great Lakes with a half dozen states on either side was reopened in a little hearing room here today. Charles Evans Hughes, as special United States supreme court master, took testimony in the Wisconsin-Illinois drainage case.

The case was started in supreme court to restrain Illinois and the Chicago drainage district from diverting water from Lake Michigan into the Illinois and thence into the Mississippi river, resulting in alleged lowering of lake levels and millions of dollars damage to lake shipping. Missouri, Mississippi and several other Mississippi states support the drainage plan. Minnesota, New York, Michigan, Indiana and other states on the lakes support Wisconsin.

The litigation has already reached the supreme court, resulting in the war department being granted authority to regulate the diversion from the lake, but the lake states assert that the drainage canal is taking an unlawful amount and Michigan, supported by New York, is now pushing a separate supreme court suit seeking to prevent diversion of any water.

After the hearing is completed, Hughes will make a report upon which the court will base its decision. Hughes may hold other hearings on the case in the regions affected before closing his sessions.

Five Real Star Acts Booked for Tomorrow Evening's Vaudeville

An all star feature program is offered at the Park theatre vaudeville performance tomorrow evening, headed by the "Neapolitan Sextette," a stringed instrument combination of piano, two violins, two cellos and a viola.

Their music is not confined to classical as is usually the way with such a line but they play jazz equally as well.

Miss Bertie Herron, a portage of Ned Wayburn and internationally known as "The Minstrel Miss," is assisted by Milt Arnsman in a fast moving comedy entitled "Koon Kapers."

Hall and Wilbur, knockout comedians in "Two Gentlemen of the H.C.s," a novelty comedy and song mixup, are sure to win their share of laughs and merited applause.

As an added attraction "Shannon's Playtime Frolics" is offered which introduces diminutive stars who are the delight of the kiddies and prove as interesting and entertaining to the grownups as they are to the little ones. Their offering comes as a surprise act which must be seen to be appreciated.

In addition to the five acts, Ralph Lewis will be seen in a stirring railroad picture, entitled "The Black Signal."

PLATS APPROVED

Petition for Extension of State Road
No. 6 Through Pequot
Granted

The plat submitted by B. J. Hinkle, of Little Falls for the Brighton Point Second Addition, east shore of Bay Lake at the Saturday meeting of the County Board of Commissioners was approved by the board.

The plat of Manhattan Beach, the tract between Trout and Whitefish Lakes in section one, of the township of Ideal was also approved by the board. The plat was presented by the Kavli Realty Co.

A petition was also received for resurvey of section 24, township 136, range 29, hearing of which will be held at the next meeting of the board when all interested are requested to appear before the board and present arguments for and against.

A petition was also received for the survey of section 4, township of Bay Lake but on account of the number of remonstrances received against it, the petition was denied.

Hugo Schwartzkopf, administrator of the Edward Boppel estate, James S. Weisz, and W. D. McKay, presented petitions asking that their lands in section 33, 34, township 124, range 38 be set aside from the Brainerd school district to school district No. 57. The petitioners will take the usual course of sending notices to parties concerned and the Board will hold a hearing on December 4.

The petition of Louis Benedix, and others for extension of State Road No. 6, running through the village of Pequot in a northwesterly direction to the Cass county line was granted and an order made designating the road as such.

An order was permitted for the rental of the C. E. Nelson warehouse on Fourth street for five months for the rearing of the county road machinery.

MAY SEAL ILL FATED MINE FOR ALL TIME, REPORTED

Ishpeming, Mich., Nov. 8.—(UP)—The question of sealing for all time the ill fated Barnes-Hecker mine and permanently entombing the 44 miners entrapped there in the cave in last Wednesday was studied by company officials today. Seven of the 51 miners who lost their lives in this disaster and whose bodies were recovered, have been buried here.

Scouts from Troops 3 and 5 spent Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Camp Clearwater hiking, making a log Adirondack shelter, and having a good time in general.

Scouts David Templeton, Roger Calahan, Leslie Hagberg, and Keith and James Richards had the unique experience of starting out of the cabin Thursday after dinner supposedly with nothing but their axes and such tools, food and blankets, in the face of cold weather with the necessity of building a shelter in which to sleep at night.

After picking a location the fallen timber was quickly cut into logs and hauled to the site and a 10x10 cabin started to take shape. Beavers could have been no more industrious than these boys. As the cabin neared completion the expressions of delight on the faces of the boys was pleasant to see. None of them had ever had the experience of notching the logs so that they fit down snug on top of each other, driving wooden pegs into the logs to hold other parts, cutting hickory wedges to split the logs for the roof, building a reflector fire to heat the cabin, making their beds and rolling into them for the wonderful experience of sleeping in a shelter made by their own hands.

A hike taken over the Chippewa Sioux trail built during past summer gave everybody a thrill because it was vastly different and many new and interesting things were to be seen along the way. As usual, the bagging gave the newcomers a big thrill much to the delight of the old timers.

One could hardly tell about this week end without referring to the copious quantities of food that the boys cooked and stowed away. Bacon, toast, cream of wheat, cocoa for breakfast; delicious beef steak, fried apples, boiled potatoes, pineapple sauce, cookies and cocoa for dinner; baked beans, fried potatoes, bread and butter, cocoa for supper. What more could one want?

The next chance for a Troop to go out for the week end will be the 19th and 20th of this month. Troops wishing to go out at that time should make arrangements very soon.

PAVING POW-WOW GAINS PUBLICITY

Stickers Can be Had at Office of Brainerd Daily
Dispatch

COMMITTEES AT WORK

Publicity Given Affair in All Leading
Papers of the State

Every effort is being made by the General Committee and other committees in charge of the paving celebration to be held here on November 13 which is next Saturday, to advertise the event throughout the entire state, northwest, and parts of Canada affected by the new pavement.

People in the city are keenly enthusiastic over the coming event. Stickers which can be had at the Brainerd Daily Dispatch office are going fast and many have offered assistance in placarding the stickers on automobiles in other cities of the state. The buses travelling throughout the state are seen to carry stickers and through the wide publicity it has already received through the newspapers, a large crowd is expected to attend.

Motorists in the city will also be interested in hanging up a record for the number of cars over the new paving on the celebration day so all car owners will be anxious to join in the parade.

William V. Turcotte chairman of the parade committee promises to put on a great revue of vehicles and is working hard securing vehicles of old date.

Stickers may also be secured at the Park and Lyceum theatres box offices.

The committee will meet again tonight to further discuss plans for the celebration.

48TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Neighbors and Friends Gather,
Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Geo.
Stilwell in Celebration

OLD TIMES REENACTED

Costumes of 50 Years Ago Worn by the Guests, Old Songs
Sung

"Ye old times" were re-enacted Sunday evening when a large group of neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Stilwell, 414 Pine street to help the worthy couple celebrate their forty-eighth wedding anniversary. Costumes of the vintage of fifty years ago were in evidence many couples coming in the gala attire of their own wedding day.

Music was furnished by Mr. Fitzsimmons, pianist, and Messrs. Mitchell and Isaacson with banjos. Old fashioned songs were sung and five hundred years ago. It was marvellous to see some of the old time costumes so right fantastic as in the days of yore, dancing being one of the features of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Stilwell were presented with a pair of beautiful wool blankets accompanied by the good will of the following: Messrs. and Mesdames Ed. Hall of Ironton, Wm. Stilwell, Rundquist and son David, Ed. Fink, Geo. Lucas, W. Campbell, A. Ellingboe, Clifford Russell, Wm. Fitzharris, J. H. Mueller, Albert Converse, E. Thomas, John Nelson, Roy Hall, P. A. Peterson, M. P. Manning, Chas. Dougherty, P. N. Bislar, Peter Hanson, Isaacson, J. L. Albertson, of International Falls, Fitzsimmons, Chas. Mitchell, and the Mesdames Leslie Heintz of Kenosha, Wis., Minnie Anderson, Val Murlowski.

Mrs. Ellingboe and Mr. Rundquist won the honors in five hundred while Mrs. Rundquist and Mr. Campbell won the booby prizes. Mr. Fink and Mrs. R. Hall received prizes for wearing costumes most representative of those worn 50 years ago.

A most bountiful lunch was served to complete the festive occasion. Of the six children of Mr. and Mrs. Stilwell the following were present: Mrs. Peter Bislar, Mrs. J. L. Albertson, Miss Hazel, Wm. Stilwell. The grandchildren were: George, Evelyn, Lucille, and Helen Bahr, and Dickie Stilwell.

How to Help Your Sickly Children

Just read this if you have a child that is thin and weak, is timid or backward.

Here's a good fair offer—give the little one McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets as directed for 30 days and if he doesn't gain in weight—in strength—in keenness of mind—the druggist who supplied you will return your money.

McCoy's has helped tens of thousands of frail, emaciated children to grow strong and sturdy—why won't they help your ailing little one?

You can get 60 McCoy's tablets for 60 cents at H. D. Dunn's, C. D. Johnson's, Economy Drug Co. or any druggist and the vitalizing vitamins will help any weak, worn-out man or woman to better health. Insist on McCoy's. —Advt.

The South Geographically

The South is generally understood as including the following states: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia, and the District of Columbia, which have a total area of 969,237 square miles, about one-third of continental United States. By some, Maryland, the District of Columbia and West Virginia are not included in the "South." By others, Missouri also is omitted.

DRINK WATER
IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Begin Taking Salts if You Feel Back-achy or Have Bladder Weakness

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders. —Advt.

New 'Lone Wolf' Film

One of the first of the new season's crop of pictures comes to the Lyceum Theatre for a two-day engagement tomorrow. It is entitled, "The Lone Wolf Returns" and is a faithful version of the fifth and last of Louis Joseph Vance's series of stories woven around this romantic character of "Lone Wolf," which have thrilled the reading world for the past five years.

Scene from "The Lone Wolf Returns"

"The Ace of Cads" Menjou's Trump

Adolphe Menjou, that ace of actors, came to the Lyceum Theatre last night in a film version of Michael Arlen's "The Ace of Cads." Menjou portrays "Beau" Maturin as no other player could possibly have done. The dissolute young Guards lieutenant who reforms for love of a woman, is betrayed by a false friend, loses her and comes back twenty years later, only to kill a second love so that the first may live—becomes an intensely real person in Menjou's skillful hands.

See "The Ace of Cads" tonight.

Selenium in Small Demand

Selenium is an element and not found native in visible quantity. It is obtained as a by-product in the electrolytic refining of copper. It is used in making red glass, electric resistances and cells for measuring light. These cells are particularly sensitive to light and many of them come under Swedish patents. The present supply of selenium is greater than the demand and it has no great commercial value.

Cultivate Moderation

Moderation is the slither string running through the pearl chain of all virtues.—Joseph Hall, English bishop and author.

Temptations Tell Tale

Find out what your temptations are and you will find out largely what you are yourself.—Henry Ward Beecher.

RED PEPPERS END
RHEUMATIC PAIN
IN FEW MINUTES

When you are suffering with rheumatism so you can hardly get around just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Instant relief. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and the old rheumatic torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from Red Peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, colds in chest. Almost instant relief awaits you. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package. —Advt.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee. —Advt.
